Forecast For London & Southeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 06 May 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Showers, heavy at times, developing, after a bright, chilly start.

Today:
A chilly start, but generally dry and bright. However, patchy cloud will increase through the morning, bringing scattered showers, some of which will be heavy. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Tonight:
Showers dying out this evening to leave a dry night with largely clear skies. It will be cold, and a patchy frost is likely to form by dawn. Minimum temperature 2 deg C (36 deg F).

Thursday:
Another chilly but bright start on Friday. Patchy cloud will develop in the afternoon, bringing a few showers, most likely across the north and east of the region. Maximum temperature 15 deg C (59 deg F).

Outlook for Friday to Sunday:
Windy Saturday with persistent rain, clearing northwards during the afternoon. Warm with sunny spells Sunday, but showers possible later. Cooler Monday with sunny spells but showers developing in the afternoon.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.